LINDBERGH HOPS OFF TO ST. LOUIS; MAY BEAT RECORD

Leaves Mitchel Field at 8.17
o'Clock This Morning

WEATHER IS PERFECT

Says He Will Fly A Straight
Air Line Course On Trip

By James L. Kilgallen
NEW YORK, June 17.—With a happy smile and a wave to the assembled throng, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off from Mitchel Field at 8.17 this morning for St. Louis in his famous monoplane, the Spirit of St. Louis.

He had planned to make the 900-mile westward flight in ten hours but it would be just like "Slim" to try and better his record jump from St. Louis to New York of seven hours and fifteen minutes.

Weather conditions were perfect for the take off. The sky was cloudless and the sun shining.

Just before he took off Lindbergh said he would fly a straight air line course for St. Louis, he said he would encircle New York City, proceeding directly to Columbus, pass over Wilbur Wright Field at Dayton, O., where he is to be met and escorted by 21 pursuit planes and that he may fly over Indianapolis.

He will land at Lambert Field, St. Louis, he said, and expects to arrive there at 4.30 p. m. central time. He hoped to gain two hours by flying straight westward into the sun, he said.

New York's official good-bye was said by Grover A. Whalen, head of the city's welcoming committee.

"I enjoyed my stay and will be glad to come back again," said Lindbergh.

Rayon Industry Talk Holds Attention of Exchangeites

At the meeting of the Exchange Club held in the Elks' Home last evening, the members became so interested in a talk given on the subject of the rayon industry, that they were loth to leave at its conclusion, and many remained after the meeting adjourned to discuss the subject with the speaker.

The speaker was Mr. L. F. McGrady, who is a chemist associated with the rayon industry. He is a resident of Bristol, and well known by many members of the club. His manner of presenting and handling the subject, showed that he was thoroughly familiar with the industry.

Starting with the cotton seed, after its extraction from the cotton, he explained the various processes employed in the manufacture of rayon. He also exhibited samples, showing the rayon in the various processes of development, and finally the finished product.

At the next meeting to be held on Thursday evening, June 20, Mr. Dudley Bell will entertain the members of the club, with an exhibition in magic and hypnotism. There will also be an address by a Mr. Clemmens, of Philadelphia.

Farewell Luncheon Given By Mrs. Williams

Mrs. Griffith L. Williams, of 805 Radcliffe street, entertained at her home yesterday afternoon at luncheon and cards as a farewell party in compliment to Mrs. Clifford L. Anderson, of 1002 Radcliffe street, who will sail next Saturday, June 25th, for an European tour, which will consume two months.

Miss Julia Slack, of Pine Grove, who also leaves Bristol on Monday, June 20th, for a three months' trip to Alaska, was also an honored guest at the luncheon.

Significant of the occasion, the center of the luncheon table boasted a magnificent flower ship, designed by Miss Eunice Williams, a daughter of the hostess, and also a talented member of the firm of Bristol Flower Growers.

The hull of the ship was made of bronze leaves filled with pink rosebuds and edged with blue delphiniums. From the masts floated an American flag. The billows of the sea were represented by undulating waves of asparagus fern. The tally cards, too, were redolent of the occasion, being in the form of ships, while the prizes also were suggestive of the means of the mode of travel of the guests of honor.

The guests were: Miss Julia Slack, Mrs. Clifford L. Anderson, Mrs. S. Phillips Landreth, Mrs. J. Fred Wagner, Miss Julia Abbott, Mrs. Louis C. Spring, Mrs. James LaRue, Miss Frances Landreth, Miss Mary and Miss Louise Swain and Mrs. Frank Lehman.

Mrs. S. Phillips Landreth, Miss Mary Swain and Mrs. Frank Lehman won the favors.

—Dr. H. Doyle Webb, of 536 Radcliffe street, spent several days this week at Barnegat Bay, N. J., on a fishing trip.

AFTER GROUSE IN CENTER COUNTY

This is one of a series of articles being written in the interest of the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association.

By William Webster Warner
One day last fall I ran into my old friend, Frank, of Frothy Hollow, right off the bat Frank says, "Hey! Webster. Heard you were going up in Center County after grouse? Well, if you are I'd like to have you come out and get old Bill and take him along, 'cause Bill is working great this season and it will be impossible for me to get away. What says you, old timer?"
I knew Bill was a good dog, for I had shot birds over him before, yet I hesitated to accept the kind offer, even though Frank was a close friend of mine. Nothing would please Frank, however, except that I take his dog. I saw he was very earnest, so the following Saturday I went out to Frank's and we took old Bill out for a few hours so that Bill and I might renew our acquaintanceship. Bill proved his master's praise, so Sunday morning, real early, Elwood, Pat and I picked up old Bill at Frothy Hollow and went speeding on our way to Center County—Snyderstown, Pa., to be more exact.

At about five thirty that afternoon we reached our destination. Upon our arrival we learned, to our own sorrow, that poor old Kessinger, with whom some of us had lodged during the last six grouse seasons, had passed away. Old Kessinger had passed on, but to our liking we found that his spirit of genial hospitality had not; for his son took the matter up and soon found a friend of his father's with whom we were welcome to stay during our intended week for grouse.

The next morning we ran into our first grouse about two miles out. I killed the first grouse and I hastened to warn the boys that such luck or shooting was too good to last, and as it was, for I sprinkled shot here and there a dozen times or more that day yet all I had to shoot at sundown was that first and only bird. During the day we flushed over thirty birds at which we enthusiastically blazed away, but in all there was only one other bird added to our bag, this being killed by Elwood. Pat didn't get a single bird that day—he said he was going easy and intended to tamin' 'em. The truth was, as we later found, Pat was really saving space in his hunting coat for the squirrels which he intended to kill later in the week, or maybe a fox or two.

The birds were very wild and flushed far ahead of the dog, thus making all shots very difficult ones. The birds were exceedingly wild perhaps on account of it being the latter part of season. On one bird old Bill made a point about every hundred yards and covered over five-hundred yards before we could get close enough to flush him, and when he did raise he was too far off for a shot.

In all the day was one full of action, and by the time old Sol was bedding down, over in the West, behind Muncie Mountains, we were three very tired and hungry men. We were three very fit subjects to physically portray a certain feature of a hungry man, which is commonly termed "ravishing appetite."

That evening we were seated before a dinner of chicken and waffles, and had I not have eaten so much that I could hardly see I would tell you whether they let Pat away or carried him away. As it is I am not sure of anything except that Pat is the "waffliest" eatin' man I ever poked my feet under the table with.

That night no one needed to be rocked to sleep and no one worried about who would tend to the milk and cream, or sell Oldsmobiles and such as that back in Bristol. Our chief need was sleep and that we took.

Tuesday we struck out for the same territory, which by name was "Little Rag Valley." Elwood killed the first bird and the only bird we got that morning out of several chances. In the afternoon we missed again and again, which every man who shoots at grouse will do. All we seemed to do was miss until about four-thirty we raised four not more than forty feet from where we had been sitting at rest. They were in the corner of some small spruce and their sudden appearance so close was a surprise, yet we got in action in time to drop two of them.

By the time we found the dead birds, one of which the dog retrieved thirty yards from where we thought it fell, it was growing dusky and we pulled down the mountain and across the fields toward our boarding place.

The following day, which was Wednesday, we attended the funeral of Mr. Kessinger, our genial host of many hunting seasons gone by. Many a winter evening have I sat in the flickering glow of his firelight and felt the touch of this grand old man's character in my heart.

Thursday morning was a very crisp and clear one and with great vim we were back to our guns, and that day was one we used them. Old Bill was eager to step among them, yet I must say that he used a degree of cautiousness which at times seemed almost above that which one could dare expect from a dog. In and out he worked, sometimes slow, sometimes fast, ever careful not to over-run. He made points here, there and everywhere and with each a commensurate ensued, but generally it was all in vain, because where these birds were made it almost impossible to get even a reasonably fair snap shot. From the number of spruce boughs and oak branches we shot off it's a wonder the forest warden didn't arrest us for tree slaughtering. The way we mowed down the vegetable kingdom was almost shameful.

Up the mountain and down the other side we waged our bombardments, and when evening came we had three grouse and three sore shoulders. Not a bad day, eh? Well, it wasn't so bad at that. Then also we got two rabbits and five squirrels which I was about to overlook. Say, but you should have seen Pat drop those squirrels. Pat is a regular go-getter after squirrel—almost a wizard, I should say.

Friday we knocked down two squirrels and two birds and up in Bear Hollow we saw numerous signs of bears where they had climbed beech trees and broken dozens of branches in their efforts after the tasty beechnuts.

Upon returning late in the afternoon Elwood spied a big buck deer, which stood not far distant and pawed the ground, first with one foot and then the other, making it seem that the cunning old buck knew his season was not yet open and he was abiding thereby in a very taunting manner.

Just imagine such a predicament! Well, Elwood was imagining, and even on in the evening as we sat about the fire, we noticed a tear in El's eye, and when Pat shoved a "sort-a" sympathetic and questioning elbow into El's ribs, El jerked up and exclaimed: "Dam that buck, anyhow!"

Here, we ended our grouse hunt with ten grouse, two rabbits and seven squirrels, and the next day, Saturday, we went fox hunting. We were making heavy on Pat after fox, and Pat did get two shots at a gray fox, but says Pat, "these fox hides must be tougher than squirrel hides,"—so the fox went on.

KEYSTONE NOSES OUT "SAINTS," 12 TO 11

With Score 11 to 9 in Fourth,
Keystone Gets 3 Runs
For a Win

UMPIRE HAS HARD JOB

(By "Scotty")
Keystone nosed out St. Ann's last night on the latter's field by the score of 12 to 11, but that's not the whole story by a long shot. The game produced 23 runs out of 13 hits, and during the contest a total of 20 errors were recorded, and because of that there is no box score or game by innings to this game, it being almost impossible to keep a correct account of the game.

It is safe to say that not one of the 500 keyed-up fans envied "Red" his job as umpire in this exciting and disorganized game. He did his best to please both teams, and the best any umpire could have done under similar conditions, and deserves a medal for sticking the game out.

If any baseball enthusiast in and around these parts missed this contest last night, he missed one of the most exciting and wildest games he could ever have witnessed.

Running along just like any ordinary game to the end of the second, with the score 1 to 0 in the "Saints" favor, Keystone went on a rampage in the third and made the score read 4 to 1 in their favor. The "Saints" came back at them in the end of that inning, scoring eight runs, thirteen men going up to bat and facing three different pitchers, leaving the score 9 to 1 in their favor. Keystone retaliated by scoring 5 runs in the fourth, making the score even, 9 to 9. The "Saints" then got a couple and the score at the end of the fourth stood at 11 to 9 in favor of the "Saints." The following account of the last inning will show how Keystone won the game:

W. White hit to pitcher and on error was safe at first; E. White hit to left field; Wilkinson struck out; L. David, batting for Cooper, and with the score 11 to 9 in St. Ann's favor and bases two and three full, hit to short and on error made second, bringing both men in; B. David fled to pitcher; Jones slugged to right field for a two bagger; David coming home with the winning run; Roe walked; McCarty, with two and three full, struck out.

Romeo hit to second and was put out at first; Fields hit to short and was safe at first, later stealing to second; Palatka, with Fields on stolen third, fled to short; Riola fled to left field and ended the game.

Score by innings: r h e
Keystone 0 6 4 5 3—12 6 9
St. Ann's 0 1 8 2 0—11 7 11

John Maier, Croydon, Dies At Age of 68

After an illness of one year a well-known druggist, John Maier, of New York avenue, Croydon, passed away Thursday morning at 3 o'clock.

Mr. Maier was 65 years old, and was well-known in Croydon and the section of Philadelphia in which he formerly lived.

This druggist had started a drug store in Croydon six years ago, and previous to that time, conducted a drug store at Kensington and Lehigh avenues, Philadelphia, for 40 years.

He is survived by one son, Walter Maier. The I. O. O. F. Order and the American Mechanics Order, of which he was a member, as well as relatives and friends are invited to the funeral service which will be held on Monday at 2 p. m. in the Community M. E. Church, Croydon. Friends may call at his home Sunday morning and evening and Monday morning.

WILL MOVE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cox, of Dorance street, are moving this coming week to an apartment on Radcliffe street.

CLASS NIGHT EXERCISES ARE WELL ATTENDED; PRIZES WHICH TOTAL $180 ARE AWARDED

Graduating Class of Bristol High School Has Program Teeming
With Interest—Numbers Are Most Original —Musical Selections Please All

Class Day exercises of the Class of 1927, Bristol High School, were held last night in the high school auditorium and were attended by approximately 700 people. It was the first class day exercises to be held in the school auditorium which proved a very delightful place for it.

The first part of the program was devoted to the welcoming address of the president, Robert Lehman. This was followed by the class history given by Mary Wurster. Miss Edith Bergey rendered a vocal solo and the class prophecy was given by Ruth Schweikert. This elicited much merriment and was dated 1937. The class poem written by Mildred Bell was recited by Charles Boyd and Cora Bazzel gave the last will and testament.

Second part of the program was devoted to a sketch entitled "Class Reunion on Board the S. S. Bristoliana—1932." The first act depicted the various members of the class meeting aboard the vessel and the decision to have a class reunion that evening on the boat.

The program was original and kept the audience amused.

Prizes were generously dealt out at the exercises at the Bristol High School. Prizes totaling $105 were awarded by the Fathers' Association in addition to two gold watches and specially designed pins. The Mothers' Association gave prizes totaling $75. Presentations on behalf of the Mothers' Association were made by Mrs. James H. Brooks, president, and John H. Hardy, president of the Fathers' Association, and the Rev. Henry Stuart Paynter, vice-president, representing that organization.

C. E. Stoneback, Sr., member of the firm of Peirce & Williams, announced that his firm would award $65 in cash to boys in the manual training department who had made the best model houses from plans furnished by them.

The winners were:
First prize, Anthony Carnvale and Robert Hendricks, $25; second prize, Fred Martindale and Nicholas Di Blassio, $15; third prize, William Winslow, Carl Foell and Fred Hermann, $10; fourth prize, William Martindale and Gene Clott, $5; fifth prize, Jack Gavegan, Lester Slatoff, Nelson Green and Henry Ancker, $2.50 each.

The list is as follows:
To the girl attaining the highest average during her senior year a gold watch was given by the Fathers' Association to Mildred Bell.

To the boy attaining the highest average during the senior year a gold watch was given by the Fathers' Association to Robert Lehman.

A member of the Fathers' Association offers a prize of $5.00 to be given to any student in the 7th or 8th grades in the Bristol Public Schools. This prize is for leadership in scholastic and social activities. The winner of this award is Gertrude Roberts.

A member of the Fathers' Association offers a prize of $5.00 to be given to any member of the 7th or 8th grades in the Bristol Public Schools who excels in arithmetic. The winner of this award is Margaret Younger.

A member of the Fathers' Association offers a prize of $5.00 to be given to the member of the Senior High School, carrying three languages, English included, who attains the highest general average in these languages during the school year. The winner of this award is Dorothy Barnfield.

A member of the Fathers' Association offers a prize of $5.00 to that member of the Senior Class, carrying three languages, English included, who attains the highest general average in these languages during the school year. The winner of this award is Robert Lehman.

A member of the Fathers' Association offers a prize equivalent in value to $5.00 to the boy who is voted the most useful athlete in the school during this school year. The judges to be as follows: The coach, one vote, members of the football, basketball, baseball and track squads each one vote; the principal of the high school one vote. The student must have attained at least a passing average in all scholastic subjects. The winner of this award is Lester Slatoff.

A member of the Fathers' Association offers a prize of $5.00 to that member of the Senior High School who is voted to have shown the greatest improvement in all around development during this school year. Judges to be the principal of the high school and the next two ranking teachers. The winner of this award is Edward Tosti.

A member of the Fathers' Association offers a prize of $10.00 to that student of the Scientific Department who was judged to be the best student in physics. The winner of this award is Albert Bisbee.

A member of the Fathers' Association offers a prize of $10.00 to that boy in this year's Senior Class who shall be voted the best all around student determined according to the following ten points; each point being considered the same in value:

1. Scholastic attainment.
2. Influence for good on the student body.
3. Conduct in school.
4. Conduct out of school.
5. Commendable work in other school activities.
6. General knowledge.
7. Attitude toward school work.
8. Impression for good on the community.
9. Dependability and resourcefulness.
10. Personality.

Those qualified to vote shall be as follows: Each member of the Senior Class shall have one vote, the one receiving the highest number of votes shall receive the vote of the class, counting as one vote, each teacher conducting classes for the Seniors shall have one vote. The superintendent of the school shall have one vote. The student receiving the highest number of votes shall receive the prize. The winner of this award is John W. Hardy.

A member of the Fathers' Association offers a prize of $10.00 to that girl of the Senior Class who shall be voted the most useful girl to the high school during her four year course; scholarship, conduct, and the time devoted to extra-curricular activities to be the determining factors. The principal of the high school, the two senior advisors and the Senior Class to be the judges. Each to have one vote except the class vote shall count as two votes—five votes in all. Mildred Bell was winner of this prize.

A prize of $25.00 to that student of this year's Senior Class of the Bristol High School, who, judging from past performances, will make the best use of it. The judges shall be the members of the Senior Class. The one receiving the highest number of votes shall be the winner. The voters were governed by the following considerations: Judging from his knowledge during the High School course, select the individual whom you believe would make any sum of money pay the largest dividends in self development and public service. It is not a popularity contest. The individual's need or lack of assistance should not count. The winner of this award is Elwood Bilger.

The executive committee of the Fathers' Association wishes to recognize the services rendered by the members of the orchestra. This they thought could be best shown by having a pin made especially for the Bristol High School Orchestra and to be awarded yearly to those members of the orchestra who are in the graduating class.

The following members of the class of 1927 are eligible to receive this award this year:
Mildred Bell, piano.
John Hardy, saxophone.
Ephraim Weissblatt, violin.
Jack Wagman, violin.
Margaret Pope, violin.
Beatrice Allen, violin.
Helen MacIvaine, violin.
Charles Boyd, saxophone.
Joseph Lanza, violin.

This pin has also been awarded to Mr. Fred Stephenson, leader of the orchestra, through whose efforts the orchestra has shown such splendid development.

An example of unusual devotion to the pursuit at hand has come to the attention of the Fathers' Association and some of its members feel that this circumstance should not be allowed to go unnoticed.

In recognition of merit on the part of the young lady, and as an inspiration to others, a special prize of $10.00 has been awarded to the young lady who has neither missed a day or been tardy during her four years' high school course—Miss Janice Wagner.

A member of the Fathers' Association offers a prize of $10.00 to that girl of the Senior Class who shall be voted the most useful girl to the High School during her four years' course; scholarship, conduct and time devoted to extra-curricular activities to be the determining factors. The principal of the high school, the two senior advisors and the Senior class to be the judges. Each to have one vote except the class vote shall count as two votes—five votes in all. Mildred Bell was winner of this prize.

A prize of $25 was awarded to Robert Lehman by the Mothers' Association for the best essay on a current topic.

The Mothers' Association also awarded the following prizes:

A prize of $5.00 to be given for workmanship and application to work in manual training, results to be judged by the teacher in charge. This prize shall be awarded to a member of

UNEMPLOYED

Americans will consider more as recrimination than a statement of fact the assertion of the British minister of labor that the United States at the present time has more unemployment than has England. If it is a statement of fact it comes as a great shock to Americans who have been commiserating England on her large number of unemployed.

It is significant that the British official was in possession of "official figures" showing 978,000 unemployed in England and of "unofficial statistics" showing 1,500,000 Americans out of work. He doesn't even disclose the source of his "unofficial" information.

Why the British labor minister didn't obtain official statistics for the United States as well as for his own country is not explained. They are available at all times.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover estimates there are, at any given time, 1,000,000 workers unemployed in this country, indicating the British guess to be slight exaggeration. But statistics are misleading.

It must be remembered that the United States has a population three times that of England and that unemployment here is due to less ominous causes than in England. England's unemployed have been out of work for years, while in this country unemployment is due to seasonal occupations throwing the individual out of work for a small part of the year only. The workless in England are the same from year to year. In this country, nobody who wants to work is jobless for long periods of time.

No doubt the British labor minister knows all this and was quoting statistics with the thought in mind that "misery loves company."

Many a woman must face the fact that she makes up everything but her mind.

A man never knows what a large following he has till he goes to his own funeral.

Work your face to be beautiful, says a London expert. But be sure to work it in the right place.

Many women enjoy being bossed, provided they are in love with the men who do the bossing.

The perfect lover doesn't have any time left to make a living.

Some husbands are so perfect they enjoy carrying umbrellas while others are truthful.

Getting credit for being good when you are merely afraid of the punishment doesn't count.

We feel that if everybody in this country except ourselves can be regulated we'll get along all right.

One reason why success goes to the head is because nature doesn't like a vacuum.

Man works hard to establish a credit and then frequently finds it too good for his good.

Observations About Events, Persons and Things Which Are of General Interest. : : :

Between now and the end of June the number of young people who will have "launched on the stream of life" will have been added to by some several hundred thousands within the confines of the United States.

Just now in every high school and college in America great preparations are going forward for the final examinations, the greatest social events of school life and the receiving of their diplomas by the vast number of students.

Bristol will add its quota to the number, as 37 Seniors in the public school and a goodly number in the parochial schools are now zealously mapping out their last high school endeavors.

All are ready to take the first big step in their lives—decision as to future activities.

Past experiences will in some cases decide the future, those excelling in certain branches of study furthering their endeavors along that line.

Some will decide upon one profession or another, others will need more time to weigh their decisions.

Down through the years many have been at a loss to decide upon any one thing, their inclinations following no definite route. By these, helpful, suggestive advice will be appreciated, from those who have traversed life's pathway.

The world has a place for them all.

but it is more ready to receive those with a will to work. These will, themselves, make their place in life's sphere's.

The oft-repeated words "There's plenty of room at the top of the ladder" were not mentioned in idle conversation when first spoken. There is a depth to their meaning.

Life will be rich for those who through sheer courage and industriousness climb up rung by rung, and the world will pay them honor.

Young men and young women now ready to leave the Bristol schools, will find many opportunities within their grasp if they will but recognize them. It will not be necessary for some to go out of Bristol or a very great distance from their home town.

Backed by a good general basis for the absorption of additional knowledge, and filled with the desire to make their service count for more each day, they will succeed.

Life holds much for them, and the larger the capital they invest in the great enterprise of LIFE, the larger returns will they reap.

Another home made brighter

Why can't your's be the next one?

ANOTHER woman has a New Easy Washer—one more woman has her washdays forever made lighter,—another woman will stay younger; look fresher; save time, money and clothes because of the New Easy that washes and damp-dries at the same time.

Why can't it be you? Why can't you be the next woman to have a New Easy in your home and see for yourself the amazing way it washes, damp-dries and handles the water—all at the same time?

Washes While It Dries

At the same time that the Easy's new drying tub is taking an eight-sheet batch of clothes and damp-drying them, ready for the line, the Easy's large tub is washing another big eight-sheet batch of clothes and getting them spotlessly clean.

Handles All Water For You

The suds, the rinse water and the blue water that are whirled from the clothes in the dryer, are taken by the marvelous water-circulating system of the New Easy and returned to their proper tubs,—and when the washing is all done, the water is emptied into sink or drain for you.

FREE!

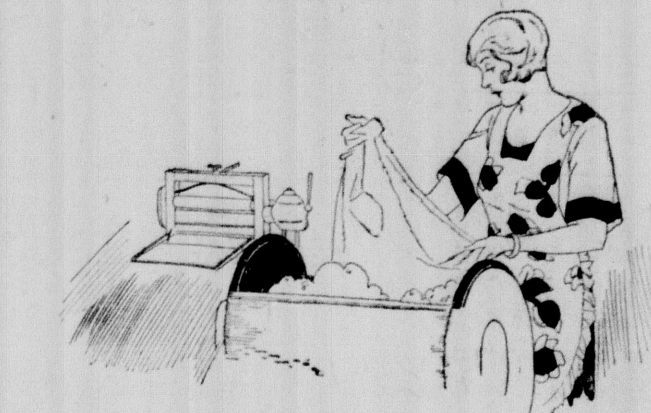

Don't wait until all your neighbors have this modern miracle worker. Phone us today and on your regular washday the New Easy will be on the job, ready to do a whole week's washing for you,—without costing you a penny. If you should want to keep the New Easy permanently, you can make a small down payment and it stays right there.

SEE THE AVON HERE

As Advertised
in the Saturday Evening Post

This Shop Mark will be found on every piece of The Avon. It is to furniture what Sterling is to silver.

If you are planning on a dining room suite this summer—or even for this fall—see The Avon now. Ordinarily a suite at this price is not featured as a bargain. But after you have seen it, you will agree that we are justified in advertising this group as a bargain in fine furniture.

Examine the artfully hand-matched woods, the hand-carved panels, the decoration of the china cabinet hand-painted, the mahogany trays for silver and linens, the lustrous hand-rubbed finish. A style smartly new, yet reminiscent of Jacobean England. And in every piece the cherished Shop Mark of Berkey & Gay.

This is the suite advertised by Berkey & Gay in The Saturday Evening Post. Come in and see it.
